

Title IX New York State Campus Climate Survey on Sexual Assault and Sexual Misconduct – 2019

Bryant & Stratton College is committed to promoting a learning and working environment where all members of the College community feel safe and respected. Acts of sexual violence are contrary to the College's educational mission and values, are harmful to others, and are not tolerated by Bryant & Stratton College. To assist the College with ensuring compliance with certain regulations tied to the federal Violence Against Women Act, and New York State's Enough is Enough legislation, the College makes available to all students and associates its Sexual Misconduct Policy and Procedure. Additionally, the College conducted a survey of its students to help determine where improvements in communication and policies on issues related to sexual assault and related types of incidents can be made to provide continued assurance of safety for the campus communities.

In 2019, we saw nearly a 25% increase in the number of students who responded to the Survey with the majority of respondents being female (89%) and a wide distribution across age groups.

The results indicated that most of the students responded that they were confident in the College's response to a report of an incident of sexual violence on campus. Overall, students believe that College would handle responses to sexual violence on campus – fairly (96.5%), take reports of incidents seriously (95.9%), provide support (95.1%) and protection for the affected individual (95.4%) and take appropriate action against the perpetrator (94.4%).

The results of the 2019 Survey also indicate that students are more aware of the definition of sexual assault (97%) and what to do in response to an event, with 90% of the respondents reporting that they are aware of how to report an event and nearly 90% aware of where to get help if they or someone they know is assaulted.

The Sexual Misconduct Policy and Procedures identify the Title IX Coordinator and other campus and community resources to assist students who find themselves victims of sexual violence. The 2019 Survey results indicate that the College is doing a better job of ensuring that the community is aware of these resources on and off campus with a significant increase in the awareness of who is their Title IX coordinator. While we are encouraged by these results, we still have a large portion of the population unsure of who is their Title IX Coordinator. The College will work to ensure that more visibility is brought to this role during this year through improved communications and increased associate training on campus.

The Sexual Misconduct Policy also provides information on the affirmative consent and the readiness to help by strictly prohibiting any form of retaliation against persons based on their good faith participation in the grievance procedure and bystander intervention. The 2019 Survey results indicate an increase in the percentage of students who are aware of these policies and indicated that nearly 84% of respondents are aware of the definition of affirmative consent. We are also encouraged by the percentage of students who believe they could get help or resources for a friend (95.4%), who could speak up for someone who is unable to give full consent (90%), who could ask a stranger if they are okay (86.8%) and who were very certain/certain that they could call for help (85.5%).

Bryant & Stratton believes the work it has done during the past couple of years, has contributed to a better-informed campus community. The College will use the information from this year's Campus Climate Survey to direct its actions to improve communications related to Sexual Misconduct Policies and Procedures to ensure the community is fully aware of the resources available to them should an incident occur.

We thank those who responded to the Campus Climate Survey and encourage students and associates to reach out to their Title IX Coordinator for more information on this topic.
